

Predictability of Hurricane Formation

Why do some African Easterly Waves develop into tropical cyclones whereas others don't? What are the pathways to formation, and to what extent are these mechanisms predictable? Via the use of observations, reanalysis data and ensemble forecasts, this new Ph.D. project (collaborative with SUNY Albany) will aim to address these questions.

