Harmful algal blooms (HABs) produce toxins known to adversely impact human health upon consumption of contaminated seafood. We are investigating whether these toxins become aerosolized and, if so, what the consequences may be for humans and air quality. Interested students are encouraged to contact Dr. Gaston and to visit our lab website: https://cassandragaston.weebly.com/